LOOKING BACK ON A

GREAT YEAR

In the first week of school year number eleven at St. Joseph's, 1663 students attended the Holy Mass offered by Father Vrabely in the gym. The Mass of the Holy Spirit implored God's help for the coming year. In his sermon Father Jahn said that we were here to work. "Shape up or ship out," was the warning. Most everybody "shaped up" and consequently fashioned a great year.

In academics we performed capably—furnishing two National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists, providing tight races for the top spots in each class-ranking, and winning scholarships and academic prizes. With thirty-four extra-curricular activities awaiting us, we filled the past-scholar hours. Club projects soared in number and enthusiasm as classroom energy leaked into other areas.

This year's Science Fair activity as well as the formal dances were organized by the students themselves. In the spotlight, we enjoyed our fourth consecutive winning season in football. Pep rallies reached a feverish pitch as wins heavily outweighed losses. Basketball followed this example and great interest spread to our spring sports.

Yes, we think that '64 was a great year!

. . . AS A RELIGIOUS TEACHER.

To Brother Reginald . . .

. . . WE OF THE 1964 HI-WAY STAFF
DEDICATE THIS BOOK . . .

Last year St. Joseph's celebrated its Tenth Anniversary, and the story of St. Joe is in a real sense the story of Brother Reginald. He is our founder, our patriarch. His tenure of dedicated service stretches from the ground-breaking on October 29, 1952, until the present date. Although Brother was Principal from the beginning until his replacement by Brother James Linscott this past fall, he still continues on the faculty as a teacher of mathematics, his speciality.

Brother's decade saw St. Joseph's march forward with giant strides. Enrollment more than doubled—from 700 in 1953 to 1650 in 1963. St. Joe last year was second among South Bend's high schools in the number of Merit Scholarship semi-finalists. In sports, our Indians can more than hold their own with the great teams of Indiana.

Brother Reginald guided St. Joe with a sure hand. He was a thoroughly efficient administrator. His unusual memory enabled him to keep straight the myriad details necessitated by big-school business. Outwardly serious and even severe, underneath Brother was possessed of a "big heart."

The 1964 HI-WAY, in the name of the entire student body, offers Brother Reginald humble thanks, and extends the best of wishes for the future.

In Personalities

A MEXICAN FOLK-SINGING SEXTET, "The Chicums," from St. Mary's Academy entertains at St. Joe hootenany.

The nationwide hootenany fad worked its way into St. Joseph's where it uncovered many guitar-laden, folk-singing students. Through their own initiative, performers organized and produced several lively sessions in the Little Theater. After very favorable response, a larger, semi-professional show was put on in the gym by the Hi-Lite staff.

The annual talent show marked a considerable increase in performers over previous years. Several groups presented themselves, singing in the hootenany manner, and patterned after some of the well-known professionals. Dance bands beat out catchy numbers. Soloists highlighted the show. Single instruments, such as the accordion, the piano, and the violin demonstrated individual talent. The art of dancing was also represented in bolero Spanish interpretive numbers. Vocal soloists entertained with various types of song ranging from popular hits to Broadway musicals.

A vital aspect of the talent show and hootenancies is that the success and rewards depended upon the initiative of the students themselves.

A GLAD MEETING in "Egad What a Cad!" between Susan Ludwick and Jerry Pauwels.

The Drama Club continued to grow this year under the new direction of Miss Kay Kelly and the Columbine Club of St. Mary's College.

In preparation for the club's big play later in the spring, the members began their study of blocking, character acting and setting from "workshop plays" in which everyone participated. Guest speakers from the drama departments of Notre Dame and St. Mory's tipped the students on proper voice technique and special acting skills.

The members then tried out their newly acquired skills on a humorous and enjoyable melodrama entitled "Egad What a Cad!" The club obtained the Little Theater at St. Mary's for two successful showings.

"Tahitian Twilight" was the theme of the Junior Class sponsored Prom. The transformation of our gym was nothing short of miraculous. Dancers entered a regular island paradise, replete with palm trees, sandy beaches, and thatched huts. Perhaps the most attractive scene was Our Lady's grotto, set in the side of a moonlit mountain. In the gym's center hung a huge blue ball representing the moon.

King Dan O'Neill and Queen Sally Miller reigned over the evening from thrones bedecked with tropical flowers.

During the evening of Don Gray's music, couples at times retired to the cafeteria which was decorated to represent a Tahitian garden. The principal feature was an arched wooden bridge.

The Prom was planned and effected under the guidance of class sponsors Sister Rose Veronica and Brother Viator and co-chairmen Karen Waechter and Dan O'Neill.

Dances Relieve Study Tensions

AN IMPROMPTU STEP—during the "Football Farewell" informal.

Throughout the school year, the St. Joseph's calendar was dotted with informal dances. Swinging to the latest pop music, students mingled with casual acquaintances and good friends, and took the edge off the week's tensions.

The responsibility of making an informal dance successful accompanied the enjoyment of the affair. In keeping with the tradition, the Senior Class set the social ball rolling by sponsoring the first dance of the year. The juniors followed with their presentation of "An Autumn Night" in which lighted pumpkins on a straw-strewn stage set the scene.

Saluting a splendid football season, the sophomores arranged the "Football Farewell." The first yearmen held their Playland Park skating party in October as a substitute for a dance. Along with class-sponsored activities, dances were given by clubs and organizations such as the Mission Club, N.H.S., and the Hi-WAY.

Informal dances also have a "packet" benefit. Financial needs of the various organizations are met at least in part by dance profits.

Aside from the idealistic advantages of these activities such as strengthening of social character and responsibility, informal dances have a simple characteristic which appeals to the whole student body: St. Joe students have fun at dances.

Carnival Spirit

WITH "MORE THAN YOU KNOW" ON THE BANDSTAND, Mardi Gras dancers glide to mellow music of Eddie Jarrett and his band.

A ROOM FULL OF MASKS—the handiwork of Dan Malinara and Pat Faley.

As February 8th grew closer and closer, the outlook for 1964's Mardi Gras grew shakier. Moving the scene from the St. Joe gym to the downtown Polois Royale Ballroom proved a money-saving but problem-solving gesture. Preparations were made long beforehand, but unforeseen circumstances limited the actual time of setting up decorations. All of them had to be done on the Saturday of the dance. Somehow a crew of very industrious Seniors met the challenge, and that evening the ballroom became "Mardi Gras 1964."

Entering through a crepe-streamered stairway, couples donned masks in the New Orleans fashion. The music of Eddie Jarret's orchestra invited dancers to try their luck on the crowded floor.

Masks were shadowed on white paper tablecloths along the sidelines. Candles in colorful wax-dripped bottles were centered on each table. Carnival colors of green, lavender and gold dominated the scheme of the stage which acted as a throne dais.

A hush and a flood of colored lights accompanied the solemn announcement by Senior Class President John Daordan of the king and queen of the ball.

Co-chairmen Pat Scherrieb and Sandy Palkowski, Senior Class sponsors Brother Viator and Sister Francis Loyola, and all those loyal senior committee members are to be congratulated on a most enjoyable Mardi Gras.

A Great Year in

Academics

Memarizing Latin declensions, intelligently discussing literary styles, drawing blueprints—the primary goal of the high school student is to fill his capacity for academic achievement. In recognition of this goal, the administration capably teaches some fifty classes. Complementing the ability and field of career interest, St. Joseph's offers placement in Science, Liberal Arts, and Applied Arts courses. Whatever the course, students' answer to these challenges are significant achievements on report cards, National Merit tests and College Board exams.

THE SCHOOL YEAR OPENS with the Mass of the Holy Spirit offered by Father Vrabely.

Religion Fosters Academic and

We have come to St. Joseph's rather than to a public school primarily because of religion. We want and need a Catholic secondary education.

Actually each school day is an opportunity to become better Catholics. We dedicate each day with the Morning Offering, and each class begins with a prayer. We are constantly reminded of our religion by the dedicated Religious who teach us. Specially trained counsellors are available for any help needed. Our school day ends with a prayer.

Having our own school chapel enables us quite literally to live in the House of God.

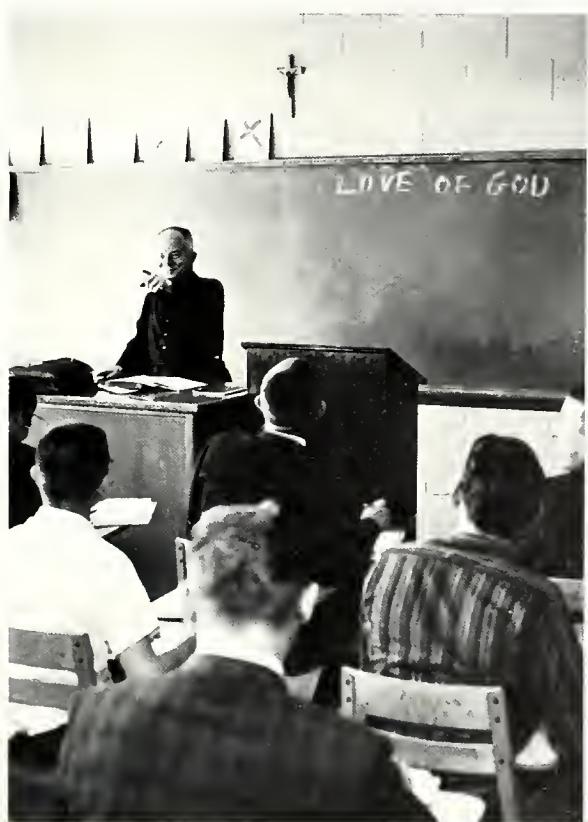

Special religious activities, the principal one of which is the annual retreat, help intensify our training.

WITH RAISED HANDS freshmen respond avidly in Brother Edward's Algebra class.

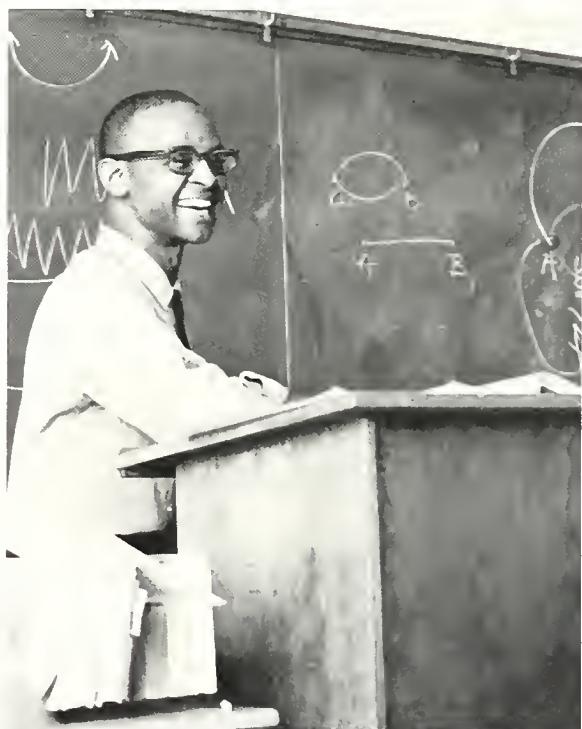

In a manner of speaking, math fathers our increasingly complicated technology. From the highest level of education to the lowest, more and more is demanded of students.

St. Joseph is trying hard to offer the best in math. A student has a choice over four years of fifteen math courses. For example the Boys' Department offers four years of algebra, two years of geometry, trigonometry, and analytics.

In the extracurricular field, the Girls' Department student interest is appealed to with a Math Club moderated by Sister Rose Veronica. Members were encouraged to prepare projects for the annual science fair.

Also in the Girls' Department, there was an experiment made with a paperback text that purported to present math in an easily grasped manner.

Students at St. Joseph's have through classes, clubs, and occasional cultural events many opportunities to express their aesthetic tastes and abilities.

Those classes whose subject matter generally might be classified under the heading of fine arts are: the Art Class in the Girls' Department, and the Advanced Writing Class in the Boys' Department.

Certainly music is a fine art, and the brunt of the work in this area is ably handled by Mr. Reith and his band.

Many clubs, such as Art, Drama, and Debate, owe their existence primarily to the appeal of the cultural.

Many musical concerts, recitals by professionals, lectures, speech contests, and talent shows round out St. Joseph's contribution to the arts.

Romance Language Students

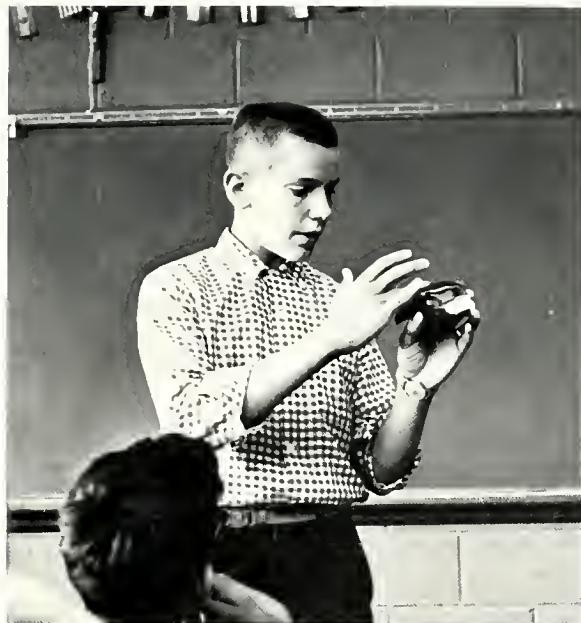

With the greater need for accurate communication today, more is being expected of high school English and foreign language courses.

At St. Joseph's the new advanced placement program in English encouraged the student to make full use of his talents. Anthologies of modern writers, daily SRA speed reading tests, novels taken "in depth," and a complete study of drama became familiar areas to the student.

In the foreign languages, the emphasis was on the "natural method," learning a language as naturally as the native tongue is learned. Audio-visual aids and tape recordings of actual French and Spanish speaking people gave the student a firmer grasp of the new language. More advanced groups in Latin studied the literary styles of Virgil and Cicero and sections of the Vulgate.

Social Studies—Background

USING A GLOBAL MAP, U.S. History teacher Wally Moore explains why Napoleon gave up the idea of an empire in America.

The past is the key to the present. History students looked at events in the past which shaped the present. In World History the development of man to the Eisenhower administration was studied. United States History treated problems of more immediate concern. As an upperclassman option, Latin American History was offered. Sociology, Government, and Civics helped the students to live as better citizens in today's society.

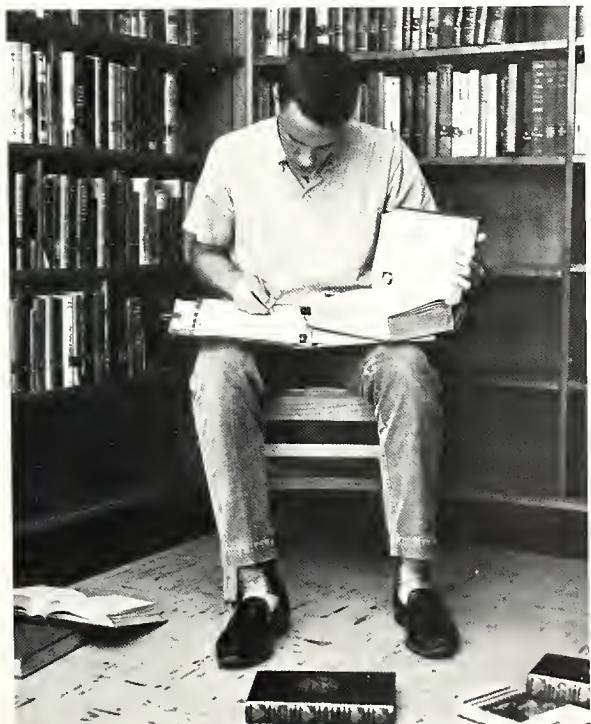

Maps, movies, and historical records helped in the study. World History students perused TODAY and WORLD WEEK, current-events magazines. The AMERICAN OBSERVER was part of every sociology and government class. Debates and discussion groups were also popular. Students attempted to solve important issues which they would soon face as adult citizens.

IN WORLD HISTORY Janet Murphy's notes on The First Triumvirate are elaborated on by Miss Knight.

Gym Becomes Lab

Earnest ambition and distinct enthusiasm were evident at the fourth annual St. Joseph's Science Fair. The fair, held March 12 last year, was under the direction of Mr. David Malone, the science club moderator.

The projects ranged from a television transmitter to Mendel's Law and the Birth. The projects of both boys and girls were divided into four major sections: mathematics, physics, chemistry, and biology. Prizes were awarded by volunteer judges to the top three contestants in each division.

The students, using their teacher's guidance but mainly their own ingenuity, displayed their work to interested onlookers. The audience looked, listened, asked questions, and admired the results of imaginative minds.

On Fundamentals

The science teachers of St. Joseph's followed a similar pattern in presenting the material of their classes. First they drilled them on the fundamentals of the various sciences. Then in the second semester with this solid foundation to work on, they delved into a limited number of topics.

In biology the students concentrated mainly on microscopic organisms, the structural variations between the plant and animal kingdoms, and the mutation of protozoa.

The chemistry students, after gaining sufficient knowledge of the theoretical aspects of the science, channeled off into an extensive study of oxidation-reduction reactions, the "Theory of Conservation of Matter," and even a deeper study of Organic Chemistry. The practical application of the latter was closely examined. This led to a study of synthetic materials, explosives, and other carbonate substances.

In physics whenever possible, Brother Benedict helped his students by executing various educational and often humorous experiments. The experiments on angular velocity and acceleration, in which the students were used as centrifuges, were especially successful.

AFTER EXPLAINING FORMULAS for amino acids Mrs. Malaney is questioned by avid students.

Meeting the standards set during previous years, St. Joseph's offered students interested in the practical arts a diversified program.

Boys planning to enter the working world after graduation took advantage of mechanical drawing and general shop. In these courses basic techniques of their particular trade were learned. Typing, bookkeeping, business math, business law, and salesmanship offered boys eying "white collar" jobs excellent opportunities to prepare themselves.

The Girls' Department had among its facilities typing, journalism, shorthand, and bookkeeping. Valuable know-how for secretarial and writing careers was cultivated here. Home economics and sewing met the practical angle for the future housewives.

St. Joe students have been trained to use these practical arts in an enjoyably as well as materially rewarding way.

Shop Class Reintroduced

IN MECHANICAL DRAWING Mr. Clark offers advice to Mike Mickow as other members of the class are busily employed.

Climaxing each school year at St. Joseph's, Awards Night salutes students who have achieved academic excellence. In addition to scholastic honor certificates awarded for honor roll standings, medals and certificates were presented to students acknowledging their efforts in religion, languages, citizenship, and in practical arts. Perfect attendance and Junior Red Cross service awards were also given. Various business organizations and local businesses awarded college scholarships and book certificates to outstanding graduates.

Father Vrabely and Sister Mary of Good Counsel addressed the parents and students on scholastic achievement and the value of intellectual merit. The students then filed out past parents and friends carrying with them the honors of this year and promises for the next.

WITH VARYING REACTION members of our administration await the beginning of the honors ceremony.

A Great Year in Activities

High School is more than a place for classroom facts and homework. It is a place to learn about careers, hobbies, people and life. Accordingly St. Joseph's has extra-curriculars covering a wide scope. To cite a few: clubs delved beyond classwork into math, chemistry, and speech. Bond members enjoyed a musically active year. Honorary groups and service staffs aided the school. Strides in responsibility, leadership, and cooperation grew out of this work along with the practical and pace-changing benefits of activities.

BAND DIRECTOR Mr. Reith gives explicit directions to perplexed Vicki Derda and Dennis Britton.

The St. Joseph's band, under the direction of Mr. James Reith, again demonstrated their talent in the 1963-64 school year.

Preparations for the varsity football games and assemblies began weeks before school officially opened with marching and playing practice. The fruits of the band's hard work were displayed on the gridiron and pep rally floor as they executed their programs with precision. Student body and team spirit was stimulated at the basketball games by their contagious vitality.

Just as all good organizations continually change in order to improve themselves, the St. Joseph's band presented the "new look" with their blue drums and the feminine appeal of majorettes and Pom Pom girls. The masterful baton twirling of the majorettes, accomplished by much practice, together with the unique dancing of the Pom Pom girls dressed as Indian maidens, added to making the band more colorful.

With their new equipment the band repeated a previous visit to Tipton Catholic High School, where they played a concert for the faculty, student body, and guests. The concert was applauded as a musical success, after which dancing and refreshments for the band members were provided. Their busy schedule also included a concert for the teacher's institute in October.

In the diocesan music contest, some of the members credited the band by winning a number of first, second, and third-place prizes.

Next on the calendar came the highly regarded Christmas program on December 17. This heralding of the joyous season was as usual well-attended by students and proud parents. Recognition was given to the musicians who won gold medals in the state and district solo and ensemble contests.

An enjoyable presentation was the Spring Concert, closely followed by the band's salute to the country's war dead in the Memorial Day parade. The graduation concert brought to a close a successful year in which the band combined talent, hard work, and fun.

Under the theme "The Role of the Christian Woman in the World Today," the Marian Club planned group discussions, sought guest speakers, and went on field trips under the guidance of Sister M. Vincent. The club's first major project was the annual Open House conducted for the junior professed sisters from St. Mary's House of Studies. This affair included individual skits and an open discussion among the sisters and club members. Through such activities the girls prepared themselves better for their later careers.

The boys' Mission Club, under Brother Carroll's direction, made an extensive study of the foreign missions by way of slides, guest speakers, and reports. Also on the agenda were serving at the annual Brothers Beef Dinner, assisting at the Patrons Club card party, and campaigning for the weekly mission collections.

Returning to the extracurricular roster this year, the girls' Mission Club dedicated itself to collecting stamps, making bandages, and collecting Christmas gifts for the Mexican children of the area. The club also sponsored a record hop, admission being stamps and cloth for bandages.

Under the leadership of Miss Kathleen Drouillard, the Art Club provided artistically-minded students with an outlet for their talents. The club received inspiration from slides of both classic and modern masterpieces and valuable information from guest speakers. In addition, field trips to various art institutes added to a general knowledge of the masters.

AT A CLUB ASSEMBLY Margaret Jackson and Kathy Lauer, representing the Girls' Science Club, cause a bit of chemical mayhem!

Realizing industry's shortage of scientists in today's world, St. Joseph's science clubs planned active programs.

In the Girls' Department, Miss Niswonger's group performed extra experiments which could not easily be done in the regular class time. These experiments provoked discussion such as how chemistry may be related in particular industrial fields. Movies and speakers were valuable aids as well as a tour of St. Mary's physics and chemistry laboratories. Also treated was the idea of medical technology as a profession. Various aspects of chemistry were exposed that were directly connected with medicine such as x-ray and research.

The moderator of the boys' division, Brother Edward, scheduled an omnibus program. For those interested in biology, there was a tour of the germ-free Lobund Lab at Notre Dame. The future aviation engineers profited through tours of Studebaker and Bendix Corporations. Research facilities of Ball Band and Notre Dame's Chemical-Radiation Laboratory were scrutinized by the chemistry enthusiasts. A series of lectures added interest. Questions were given first-rate answers in various fields by experts such as Brother Raphael, associate professor of biology at Notre Dame.

Interest in science was confined not only to meetings and activities. Members were encouraged to experiment, read and discuss scientific subjects on their own. Additional experience as well as personal satisfaction were acquired as a result.

The Future Doctors Club this year was moderated by Brothers Edward Libbers, and Francis Warth. The club was also guided by Dr. Bodnar, who originally organized it.

Bi-weekly meetings traced films covering everything from medical schools to open-heart surgery. Some upperclassmen were privileged to see the special autopsy movie at the close of the year. Films were followed by comments and discussions led by doctors of various fields.

Future Doctors were also busy on tours such as the Indiana U. Medical Center trip where they took advantage of a tour of each building.

The Future Nurses expanded this year to include all fields of Health Careers. Under moderator Miss Rossi, the club investigated many vocational topics. At each business meeting, a guest speaker told about a particular phase of nursing.

A new ceremony in the Health Careers Club was the "pinning." Financial problems were met with a bake sale and a raffle.

All types of education were explored by the Future Teachers Club. Speakers described different grade levels of teaching as well as educational requirements for teaching. Sister John Joseph co-ordinated the club's activities.

Members attended the Oct. 12th, Indiana Teachers Convention where groups from all over the state discussed the theme "A Freedom to Explore." Such topics as the supply and demand of teachers were elaborated.

"Resolved: that the federal government should provide complete medical care for all citizens at public expense." This was the problem facing the debate teams this year.

The team was under the supervision of Brother Daniel Bengert, who was also moderator last year.

Although only in the second year of its existence, the club received enthusiastic participation from St. Joe students. Frequent debates between the teams stimulated spirited competition.

The club was divided into two opposing factions. The affirmative, led by Dennis Egan was pitted against Mike Dunn, heading the negative. Through numerous practice debates, the members prepared themselves to represent the school in city matches. Brother Daniel coached the team, impressing on them the fine points of rhetoric. Valuable assistance was also received from the Notre Dame debate team, whose tips helped the team leaders co-ordinate their sides.

Early in the fall, the team yielded their first debate to Holy Cross Seminary by a one-to-three score. The club's next rival, Gary Andrean High School, was tied, two-to-two. The team then met Washington Clay and Lafayette's Jefferson High School.

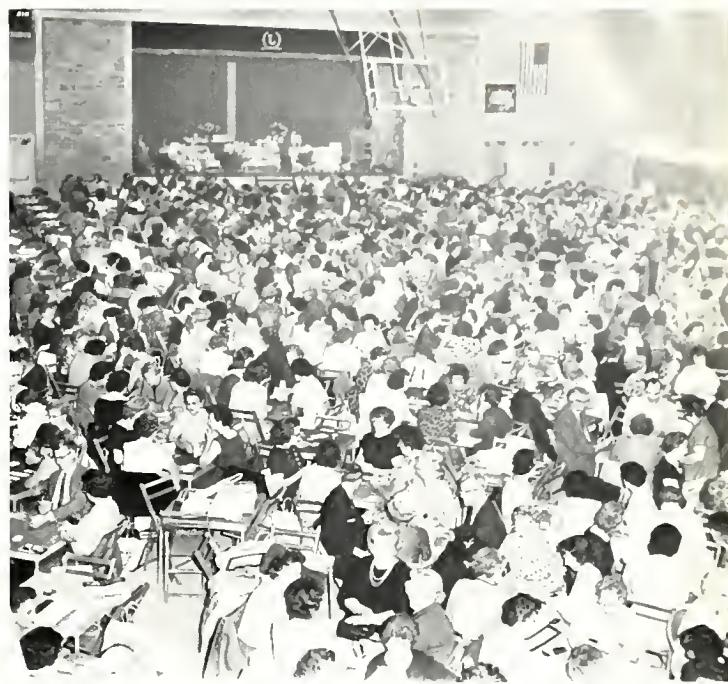

The hard-working attitude of St. Joseph's debate team combined with the experience received this year holds bright promise for the future.

The Senate was composed of the eight class presidents and the elected representatives of each home-room. Qualifications were based on the individual as a capable leader having a good disciplinary record and an overall good attitude toward the school.

The Senate was responsible for several important services through the year which kept the members busy. Exemplifying the Christian charity of the student body, the annual food drive was sponsored for the less fortunate of our area at Christmas time. A frequently consulted booklet, the Student Directory, was also a Senate effort.

On the lighter side, a dance was sponsored to release the pressure mounted up from the midyear semester tests. Later in the year the Senate sponsored a lively talent show, the student body being both talent and viewer. Home basketball games found the girls selling programs.

As in past years, the Student Senate has served its purposes well. The main duty was obvious, voicing the suggestions of the faculty and expressing the feelings of the students. Another, more subtle end was also accomplished as better relations among the students themselves were brought about.

N.H.S. Upholds

The purpose of the National Honor Society is to recognize those students who best exemplify the four cardinal principles of the society, namely, character, scholarship, leadership, and service. At the formal induction ceremonies, these virtues were elaborated on by members and guest speakers. As one is accepted into N.H.S., he realizes that this honor must be met with continued enthusiasm.

A traditional service is tutoring by which members regularly assist pupils in need of scholastic help. On the social scene, "Snow Flurries" was the theme of the N.H.S. dance presented January 10th.

The big event of the Our Lady of Victory Chapter, moderated by Sister Mory Edith, was Careers Night. Girls were encouraged to attend and profit from talks and consultations by professionals. Two amendments were voted on to be added to their constitution regarding elections and membership qualifications. Selling religious pamphlets at retreats secured their operation funds.

In the Josephite Chapter, financial problems were solved by the "pop detail" at dances. The boys, under Brother Paschal, made themselves useful through various assignments such as assisting the future freshmen on their entrance exam day. They also gave again this year a scholarship to a deserving freshman.

The National Honor Society has proven true to its ideal that it is not an elite clique, but an example for others to imitate.

THE OUTER CIRCLE AT WORK: Bill Hovel, John Minczeski, Tom Kierein, Jim Lloyd.

The 1964 HI-WAY had deadlines to meet, the first one coming two months after school opened. It was a constant, straight-ahead push to get the book to the presses on time and to maintain the accustomed A-I rating.

The 1964 HI-WAY was born last summer when editor-in-chief John Doordan and co-editor Denis Anderson spent two weeks in the High School Journalism Institute at Indiana University. Here they planned the basic theme and style, as well as the finer points of good copywriting and editing. Brother Anton, moderator, co-ordinated the staff efforts, kept them pointed in the right direction, and contributed his own photographs, captions, and layout suggestions.

Each school day at the sixth period the yearbook room opened and didn't close until four o'clock. Inside, most of the work of the staff was a sort of urgent routine. At times, however, real sweat was needed to pound out a headline, a caption, or revise a bit of copy.

The Hi-Waymen duties were not confined to the undersized "cubby hole" that was the yearbook room. Reporters had to pump information from club sponsors and officers; photographers had to keep alert for new picture ideas. There was photo lab work to be done, errands to be run, and the editors spent untold hours thinking and working on the book at home.

An important sidelight of the daily pressure routine was the fun. Any disappointment, inconvenience, or just plain fatigue was offset by the sense of camaraderie and satisfaction at doing a difficult job well.

Hi-Lite Published Bi-weekly

A good school paper must relate all interesting happenings in the school. Of course, the attention of the reader depends on the appeal of the paper. The HI-LITE staff worked hard to make every sentence satisfy the most critical of reader. Editor-in-chief Susan Bick and co-editor Mary Ann Pajakowski were well-prepared to do their job well. In addition to having studied journalism in school, they attended the Journalism Institute at Indiana University last summer.

The 1963-64 HI-LITE is to be congratulated on its consistently high standards of reporting. The copy was carefully done and very readable. Editorial subjects were up-to-date and the treatment provocative. The sports copy, which is of special interest to boys, was of high quality. There were for the most part excellent, meaningful photos. Layouts had balance and variety. What made the hard-working staff succeed is obviously leadership, the leadership and industry of Miss Hoehn, the moderator.

A new and interesting feature of the HI-LITE was the reporting of alumni successes in various colleges attended.

Even though there were pressures especially around deadlines, the HI-LITE staff always found time for fun. A satisfaction from each completed issue of the paper and a happiness in hard-working companionship made being on the staff a very worthwhile experience.

A Great Year In

Sports

From the little guy in the last bleacher seat to the determined linebacker on the field, St. Joseph's students participated in sports. In less publicized activities such as intramural volleyball and boxing, we fought for the sake of competition. Gym classes and weight-lifting programs strove for physical fitness. When our ratings were challenged in football and basketball, we stubbornly defended our prestige. Because of our stout-hearted efforts, we can look back on a great year in sports.

Saints Dominate South

For the second straight year St. Joseph's Indians have come within a whisker of a perfect season. The 1962 season ended 9–1 and this year the record was 8–1. In fact, over a three-year period St. Joe has a most enviable record of twenty-three wins and four losses! This year at the final polling of the Top Ten football teams, St. Joseph's stood seventh. Central of South Bend, the closest of the other city schools, was ninth.

St. Joe was particularly conspicuous this year for superb line play. We had a defensive line that could match any in the state. The offensive backfield was characterized mostly by straight ahead, hard-nosed hitting. Fullback Rich Joo and halfback Bruce Hordman carried the ball-carrying brunt. As the season wore on there was added the constant threat of sprinter Tom Gerencher's end sweeps.

St. Joe's only offensive defect was the lack of an effectively consistent passing attack.

To give credit where it's due, none of these scoring elements could have been put together effectively without Coach Wally Moore and his assistants. We honestly believe the Indians are favored with the finest coaching staff in Indiana.

Something too must be said about the loyal student support that backs the team. On every occasion St. Joe drew more fans than their opponents.

In the opening game against the all-veteran Bears of South Bend Central, the Indians looked as if they would win going away. The score spurted to 13–0, but St. Joe had the fight of its life to hold off a second-half Bear rally that narrowed the gap to one point, 13–12! The game's dying seconds saw a determined Indian defense, led by Pat Lahey, drop the Bear quarterback for losses on four successive pass attempts.

The two Fort Wayne Catholic schools were our next opponents.

At Bishop Luers, St. Joe again had to sit on an early lead. Luers scored a touchdown in the final ten seconds that nearly overhauled the Indians. At the gun the score read 21–20. The annual homecoming opponent was Central Catholic. The Indians blasted the Irish 25–0.

Hopes for an undefeated season crumbled early in our game with Laporte. We were victims of speed and deception, rather than of over-confidence. For practical purposes the game could have ended with the first quarter. The score stood 20–7 against us. The Indians were a better team, rallied for another touchdown, and late in the game were driving for the clincher, but never quite made it. The final score was 20–14.

Washington Clay, counting on a big victory for a successful season, almost upset St. Joe. With the Indians trailing 7–6 late in the fourth quarter, Tom Gerencher broke loose for a 64-yard gallop that produced victory, 13–7.

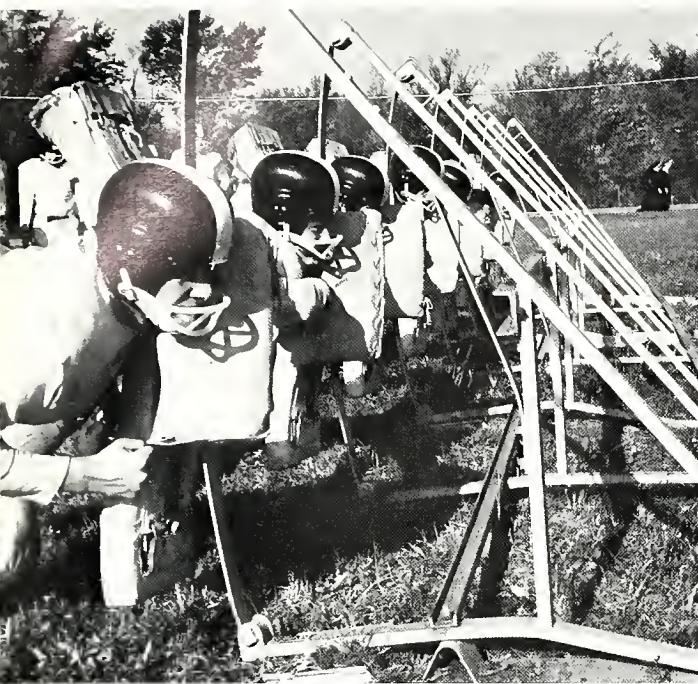

At this point, the St. Joe Defense stiffened, shutting out the last four opponents. Lafayette C.C. fell 33–0 and Washington of South Bend 13–0. The latter victory was particularly sweet since it was the first win ever over that team.

Gary Andean, ranking eighth in the state and sporting a two-hundred pound line, roared into School Field with the backing of a huge, vaciferous student body. St. Joe proved more than equal to the challenge. Vicious line play was punctuated by two quick strikes that gave St. Joe a well-deserved 13–0 victory. Dave Smith hit Bruce Hardman with a 14-yard end-zone pass, and Rich Jao bolted off tackle for 53 yards and the second counter.

Playing part of the time in a blizzard St. Joe in its last game soundly whipped Penn 33–0.

The 1963-64 St. Joseph basketball team started off slowly, gained momentum, faltered, and sailed clear in the last half of the season to a fine 14-6 record. This rally was generated by an increased team spirit, determination, and hard work, all qualities which through the years have made St. Joseph's athletic squads great.

In the first game the Indians scared the pants off the S.B. Central Bears by rallying from a 15-point halftime deficit and pulling to within two points, 69-71, at the gun. Distracted and downhearted by President Kennedy's assassination, St. Joe lost another game, 72-88, on November 22 to E. Chicago Roosevelt.

The victory over Riley set the Indians off on their winning ways. Hammond Noll succumbed 71-67; Niles came out on the short end of a 55 personal foul fest, 69-61; and Hammond Morton fell by a 56-55 count. The Washington game turned out to be the nadir performance of the Tribe, who managed to hit only 23% of their shots and lost 41-54.

The Indians wound up for the Holiday Tourney by beating Hammond Clark 62-58. In the tourney St. Joe beat host Mishawaka in the first game 82-72, but lost to Penn in the championship, 73-61. After an unexpected loss to S. B. Adams, the Tribe settled down and dispatched the next five opponents: Mishawaka 72-71, Clay 71-57, Concord 75-52, Culver Military 86-57, and Lakeville 59-50. The team let down a bit against Fort Wayne C.C., losing 74-66.

Saints Go

The old adage "Revenge is Sweet" was confirmed in the Penn re-match, as the Indians played their best game of the season in downing the Kingsmen 79-70. At Indianapolis the Indians lashed host Cathedral 74-59. In the final game St. Joe beat diocesan rival Ft. Wayne Luers 84-75.

The Indians outscored their opponents at an average of 69-64 per game. Capt. Mike Canfield led the way with a 21 point per game average. Next were forward Al Van Huffel and center Ken Hass each with an eleven point average. Others who regularly turned in double-figure performances were Joe Moore, Mike Menhart, Tom Nowak, Bob Holtz, and Jim Sniadecki.

The improvement in the second half of the season centered around a tougher defense. Van Huffel and Hass began monopolizing the defensive boards, and the opposition rarely got a second shot at the basket. Mike Canfield became consistently effective at blocking shots. Guards Sniadecki, Menhart, and Nowak pressed their opponents, forcing them into making mistakes. Team spirit improved, the greater effort enabled the Indians, when behind, to catch up and go ahead of opposing teams.

As for next year, Coach Richard Hendricks will have three returning lettermen around which to build his team: Ken Hass, Jim Sniadecki, and Mark Hurtubise. His top B-Team prospects are Junior Mike Pianowski, Jack Mathys, and Sophomore Larry Radeki. At all odds, with lots of hard work, next year's team ought to come close to equaling this year's record.

Lessen Tension

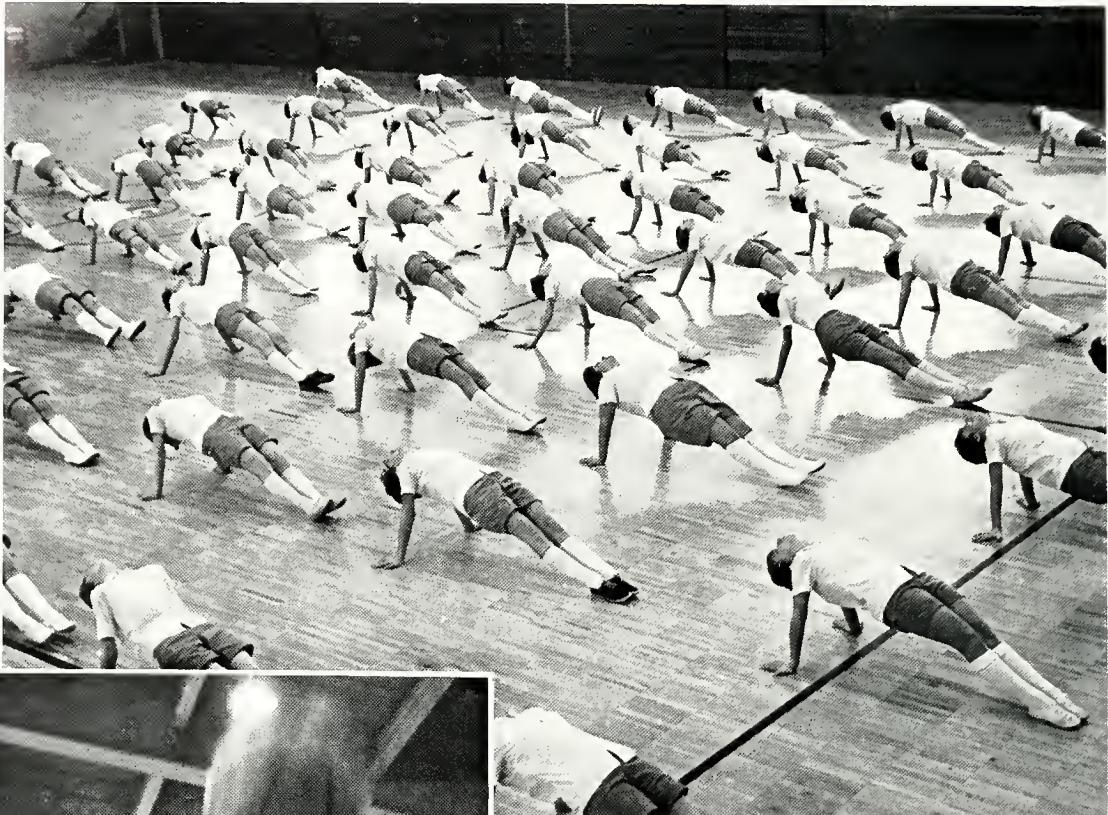

To provide a healthful means of recreation as well as to give a lot of fun, our sportsmen were again offered the opportunity to flex their muscles in the year's intramural activity. Junior and senior basketball was the most popular sport as our athletically inclined students combined individual skill and team co-operation under experienced supervision. At the end of the elimination tourney, the leading junior team opposed the top-ranked senior squad for the intramural championship.

In charge of regulating the intramurals was track Coach Bernard Haag. To enhance the interest and participation of an ever-increasing number of enthusiasts, Mr. Haag gave the program a wider scope by adding volleyball to the athletic agenda.

With over-whelming response, the first volleyball championship team was determined as "Turks" beat "Femco" in the final game, 21-14.

In a parallel program, students intent on trying out for varsity positions next year were required to participate in weight-lifting classes, sponsored to improve athletic ability and to lower susceptibility to injury. These classes were directed by head football coach Wolter Moore, who served in the capacity of supervisor and instructor. This program of off-season training encourages and develops teamwork, sportsmanship, and individual improvement.

Assemblies Stir Spirit and Support

Pep assemblies play an important part in athletics at St. Joe's. Only a relatively small percentage of the students can participate in sports. The rest must stay on the sidelines and give moral support to the team. This is where pep assemblies come in. They spark a strong school spirit in the students and team members.

The Senior Class presented the opening assembly in which Joe McArdle delivered an impassioned harangue. Next came the Junior assembly. The entire class formed an aisle up the gym floor to cheer the team as it came in, and then clustered about to hear Coach Moore speak. During the Sophomore assembly, the starting eleven were brought on stage in wagons pulled by Sophomores.

An innovation this year was the basketball homecoming. During the assembly, the homecoming queen and her court were announced. At the Junior assembly Ed "Festus" Garvey was borne on a royal pallet by members of the Junior Class attired in togas and sandals. Addressing the crowd, he enrolled the team into the "Order of the Mangled (Adams) Eagle."

Indeed the assemblies have achieved their goal. They have instilled a strong spirit into the student body and added solid backing to the team.

St. Joe's track and field squad left a modest 4-6 record for '63. Under the direction of Coaches Walter Moore and Bernard Haag, the team worked hard to develop latent talent. Facilities were improved with the addition of a cinder track, the efforts of the coaches and team members. The growing interest in track is demonstrated by the increasing participation of underclassmen.

The Indians dropped their first two meets to Elkhart and Central. After this initial blow they raced back with victories over Goshen and Riley. Resolute efforts were demonstrated in a triangular meet at Washington Clay where St. Joe over-powered Penn and Clay. What seemed like a winning streak was halted as St. Joe was sidetracked by Adams and S.B. Washington.

The Indians recovered, beating Michigan City and trouncing New Carlisle. An end of the season slump followed as St. Joe bowed to Mishawaka and Laporte and placed third in the Penn Relays.

The B-team showed great promise by winning all their meets. The newly organized freshman team lost their only meet to Laporte. Shattered school records in the miles, 100-yard dash, the 220, mile relay, half-mile relay, pole vault, broad jump, and high hurdles proved that our team is working hard toward a much better record in '64.

St. Joe—Runner Up in City Tourney

As it turned out St. Joseph's diamond men did better in the city championship tournament than they did during the regular season. The season's record was 11–6. In the city tourney, however, the Indians went to the title game against Mishawaka before losing.

Under the direction of a new coach, Gene Viola, and with veterans returning, St. Joe looked forward to the 1963 season with confidence.

After an opening victory of 7–4 over Niles, there were losses to perennially tough Laporte (15–7) and Elkhart (4–0).

St. Joe rebounded with wins over local competition, Adams (6–5) and Mishawaka (14–1). All season long the Indians continued this on-again, off-again pattern, without ever being able to mount a consistent winning skein. The final game of the season was a narrow loss to Central 10–9.

In the first round of the City Tournament St. Joe turned the tables, eliminating Central 7–2. Timely hitting and good pitching then produced a victory over Riley 6–5, and our Indians were suddenly the tournament's favorites. However, despite a brilliant pitching effort by Ed Hanezewski, St. Joe lost to Mishawaka 4–2 in the title game.

Incidentally, Senior pitcher Ed Hanezewski was offered a contract to play ball with the Phillies.

Lettermen Dan Wiskotoni, Dove Smith, and Terry Green—Terry missed the season because of a knee injury—will be on hand next year. With this trio, St. Joe can boast the finest pitching staff in the city.

SUMMIT CONFERENCE—Coach Viola and infield gather around pitcher Dave Smith who seems to be in a tight spot.

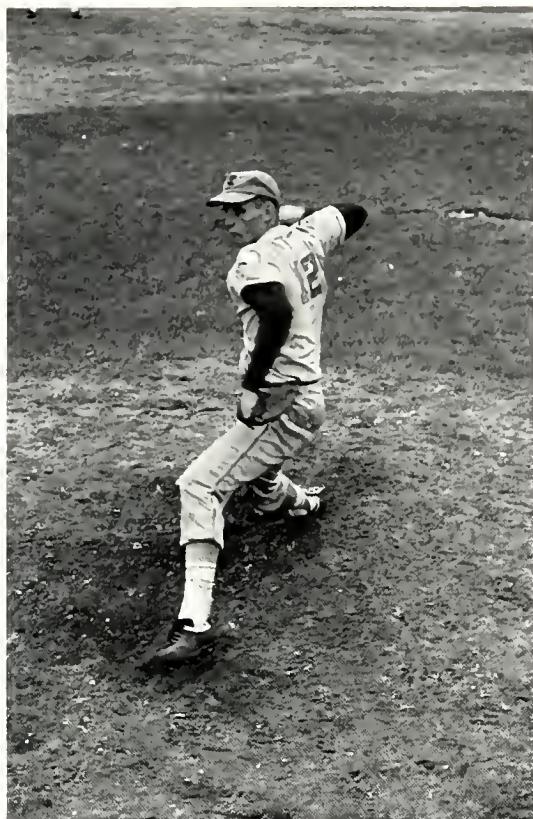

GIVING IT THE BIG STRETCH, Mike Pianowski awaits a peg at first.

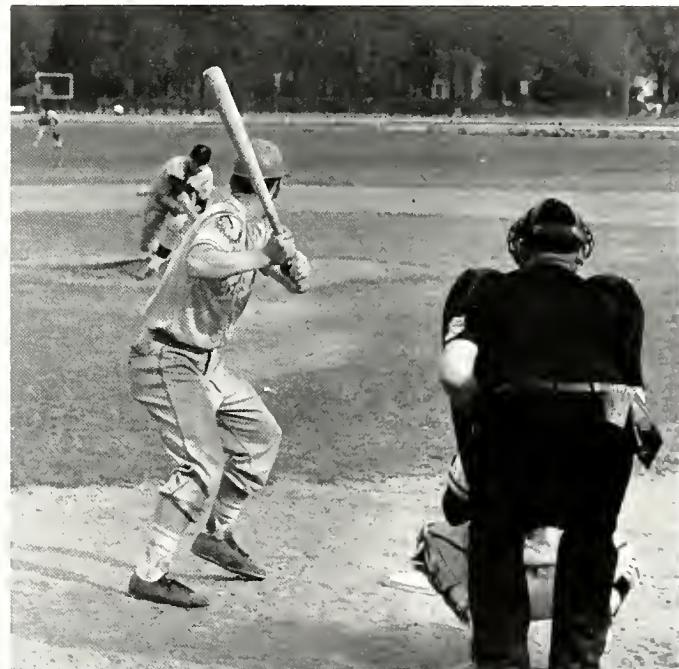

JUBILENT INDIANS gather around Bruce Hardman who has just belted a hamer against Washington Clay.

CATCHER Ron Jeziarski connects with a pitch on which he swings from the heels.

INDIAN PITCHER Dan Wiskonti takes aim at the strike zone.

IN COMES THE PITCH and Hugh O'Malley is all set to take a crack at it.

AS THE CATCHER LOOKS ON HELPLESSLY, Joe Kernan races home.

Athletic Prowess

The mark of athletic distinction at St. Joe is the coveted monogram letter sweater. The sweater denotes that the person wearing it represents not only physical achievement but character development as well. The monogram winner has co-operated with teammates and coaches, thereby displaying the St. Joe calibre of sportsmanship.

Club members perform services that are connected with sports, such as: selling those renowned Injun sweatshirts and berets. Members ushered at games and sponsored school dances and assemblies.

The recipients of the monogram sweaters were given recognition before the boys' department in the annual awards assembly. Mr. Jahn Lloyd presented this year's Kiwanis Award for excellence in football to Ken Kaczmarek. This award takes into account—in addition to athletic ability—talent in scholastic, social, and personality fields.

Keeping the organization running smoothly was Mr. Walter Maare. Officers of this year's Monogram Club were: president, Alan Van Huffel; vice-president, Tam Gerencher; secretary, Jahn Tappel; treasurer, Bruce Hardman; and sergeant-at-arms, Joe Moore. Wearing the letter sweater gives the inner feeling of accomplishment which is felt by the coaches as well as the players themselves.

A Great Year in

Personalities

The essence of the spirit of St. Joseph's is the co-operation of the faculty and the students. The merits of the faculty are obvious in their dedicated teaching and guidance. The students complement by distinguishing St. Joseph's in academics, activities, and sports. Yet these students don't immortalize themselves. These are the same people cramming the corridors, borrowing a dime and forgetting to pay it back, helping you on your math problems. Meet them; they are a great bunch of people.

THE COLLECTION OF TUITION FEES—one of Miss Kellogg's many daily duties as private secretary to Father Vrobely.

RELAXING after a hectic school day, Father John settles into his favorite chair with book and smoke.

Brother James

St. Joseph's owes its academic reputation primarily to its efficient and dedicated administration. Father John Vrobely, who represents the diocese, is superintendent. Under Father's authority are two department heads, Sister Mary of Good Counsel, vice principal in charge of the girls, and Brother James Linscott, principal in charge of the boys.

Brother James, formerly Dean of Boys at St. Joseph's, returned this past fall as principal, succeeding Brother Reginald who devotedly guided our school for ten years. Brother Reginald continues on as teacher in the science department.

Most recently Brother James was at Reitz Memorial in Evansville, where he was teacher and Prefect of Discipline.

There are sixty-eight members on the teaching faculty. This number includes seven priests, nineteen brothers, twenty-three sisters, and nineteen lay men and women. On the hard-working faculty the usual teaching load, except for the priests who handle only religion classes, is five classes. Since ours is a large school of more than 1600 students, there are many extra-curricular activities. The responsibility for moderating or coaching these activities is balanced between the faculty members so that no particular individual is overburdened.

Maturity, Sophistication Highlight

School's Largest Graduating Class

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS—Treasurers Mary Mallison and John Toppel, Presidents Karen Waechter and John Daardan, Secretaries Margaret Jackson and Joe Moore, Vice-presidents Sue Yancey and Al Van Huffel.

Academically, athletically, and socially, it was a great year for seniors. The Class of '64—more than four-hundred and twenty-five students—was the largest graduating class ever to leave St. Joseph's High School.

As the most experienced group in the school, the seniors led St. Joe in academics. A large majority of this year's graduates were accepted at universities and colleges in nearly all parts of the country. A number of students won scholarships and other academic prizes including national commendation for efforts on the National Merit Scholarship Test.

In athletics senior talent provided the backbone of the great football and basketball teams. Five seniors received individual recognition in the area for their gridiron prowess. Fourth-year men also dominated the baseball squad.

As any difficult task arose in the St. Joseph social life, a capable senior answered the call. The tradition of elaborate pep assemblies was upheld through senior leadership. Homecoming and Mardi Gras posed problems, but ingenuity and hard work made them successes. Senior representatives attended meetings of the Rotary, Lions, and Kiwanis Clubs to see how these organizations benefit the area. Finally, the Senior Ball provided the "crowning touch" to a great high school career.

AT A SENIOR FOOTBALL ASSEMBLY Master of Ceremony Joe McArdle pep talks the student body.

Treasurer; David Demeter, Treasurer; Jaan Sullivan, Secretary; Frank Summers, Secretary; Pat Donlan, Vice-President.

Four-hundred strong, the Junior Class is rapidly gaining distinction, scholastically and athletically. They are becoming the "looked-up to," the 1965 recipients of the scepter of graduating seniors.

As PSAT and NMSQT tests remind them, the demands of colleges are an ever-present reality, and books must continue to be beaten. Juniors respond with a consistently high number on the honor rolls.

Holding significant positions and definitely adding thrust to the Indians' athletic reputation seemed to characterize Juniorhood. Key football scrimmages and track tape breaks regularly found Juniors in the spotlight.

One credit to the Class of '65 is their disbelief in the conventional. Third-year men personify originality. Their view of a pep assembly is a Roman pageant climaxed by Caesar Garv's mock oratory. Basketball homecoming was presented in a threefold assembly, coronation ceremony, and victory dance afterwards.

Juniors have gone through a change in their three years at St. Joe. The grand night out is not a skating party, but a semi-formal. Bicycle registrations are being rapidly replaced by driver's licenses. A class ring becomes a symbol of his affiliation with St. Joseph's. A frank appraisal of a Junior is that he can allot proper time for fun and seriousness—a good sign of maturity.

JUNIOR CLASS SPONSORS: Sister M. Vincent Ferrer and Brother Daniel Kane.

Posing as a plutocratic Roman, Ed "Festus" Garvey, in a Juniar Basketball Assembly, waves to the populus.

Sophomores Increase Social Scope

A sophomore cannot say, "I didn't know I'm not supposed to cut through the boiler room," which he said as a freshman. Ignorance of the law does not excuse a sophomore. So it is with all sophomores as they complete their second year of high school and are ready to proceed to the rank of an upperclassman. Having shed their skins of uncertainty, they have donned an attitude to dig into high school life. They have been given the responsibility of leadership and dedication which they have enthusiastically fulfilled.

The sophomores found themselves sponsoring football and basketball assemblies which focused on the latest fads. Hoagannies and wacky skits were characteristic of their new and unique ideas. Sophomores placed athletes on varsity squads and on the "B" teams, thus warranting security and experience for St. Joe teams of the future.

Along with responsibility usually comes privilege. Because they are now full-fledged members of St. Joseph's High, they have been given the right to engage in special social functions. The Mardi Gras and proms highlighted the year and smoking with upperclassmen added to sophomore status.

"Where's my other boot?" "Quit pushing,"
"This darn combination won't open,"—a few sophomore exclamations during the after-school rush.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS:

Frosh Adjust to High School Ways

FRESHMAN CLASS SPONSORS: Sister Rose Veranica and Brother Thomas King.

Filled with justified fear, serious doubts, and exciting anticipation, this year's freshman entered on their first step of higher education. Cautiously acquainting himself with the new surroundings, he adjusted accordingly. Sitting while answering a question, changing classes after every period, and getting used to new grading systems were some of the easier changes that the freshman experienced.

His educational environment transformed, the freshman was expected to keep up acceptable grades despite his curiosity in clubs, sports, and social activities. This, however, did not preclude extracurriculars. The first-year men sponsored several class activities and a skating party for the whole school. These helped financially, but the main purpose was to give the new student a chance to become acquainted with others at St. Joseph's.

In athletics the freshman was introduced to new coaches, gym classes, and high school sports. After a time for adjustment to fundamentals, he was introduced to more difficult formations and maneuvers. Skill along with good coaching resulted in impressive season records.

Despite the many changes, one aspect was basically the same. Spiritual development, an emphatic concern of the school, was not forgotten. The holy Sacrifice of the Mass, regularly said class prayers, and religion classes nurtured the freshman spiritual growth.

For Each . . .

a Great Year

Every yearbook has a theme. For 1964 we have developed the idea of "Looking back on a great year." Many events distinguished 1964, such as Seventh Place in the final poll of Indiana's football teams and Brother James's first year as principal. Graduating was the largest Senior Class, but over all, it was a year like all years. What then, makes it a great year? Looking at it from another point of view, we can't really measure the greatness by how many spectacular things happened. It can be as worthwhile and successful a year as an individual makes it for himself. The small things, good grades resulting from persistent studies, a letter in track, winning social status, making good friends, all mean more to the student. We can give ourselves credit if we find that '64 has been a great year.
